SYSTEM COATINGS

PERFECTLY MATCHED

■ DOLD GROUP

You set the tone, we do the rest.

On heterogeneous substrates, perfectly matched powder and wet coatings ensure a harmonious overall appearance for lasting good looks.

From mechanical engineering to façades, trains, commercial vehicles, furniture and many other areas of application, objects are often created by combining various components – which in turn are made from entirely different materials, produced by different suppliers and finished by contract coaters throughout Europe or overseas. So does this mean it is impossible to achieve a consistent and harmonious surface? Not at all! System coating solutions from the DOLD Group deliver shade accuracy and good looks thanks to perfectly matched powder and wet coatings.

This is made possible thanks to the powder coating expertise of IGP Pulvertechnik AG and the wet coating expertise of Dold AG. Under the umbrella of the Dold Group, around 600 employees develop and produce perfect system solutions that meet all requirements.

As the customer, you benefit from comprehensive coating solutions from a single source, including consulting and service. This is what we stand for. You determine the shade and design, we supply you with application-specific system solutions, perfectly matched in terms of shade, gloss, effect and texture – for transport, industry, architecture and the wooden furniture industry.

DOLD GROUP

Top-class technology in powder coating and wet coating.
From a single source. Worldwide.

Industry

Our coatings have what everyday life demands: robustness and durability. Without losing that certain extra something.

Surface solutions for industrial plants and machines must withstand the most challenging conditions, while ensuring a uniform look for all components – regardless of their origin. Our system coatings are more than ready for these challenges. Our aim is to achieve the longest possible service life – even on demanding substrates such as steel, cast iron and non-ferrous metal. Even with continuous use and under heavy stress.

Whether by rail or road, coated surfaces pose an enormous challenge in the transport industry – regardless of whether they are coated with powder or wet paint. Besides being constantly exposed to environmental influences such as water, dirt and UV rays, they must also withstand mechanical stress and intensive use. Our system solution toughens every component to ensure it can meet these special requirements – while retaining lasting good looks.

Transport

Resistant and durable for all kinds of daily use. Our coatings get you safely to your destination. Day in, day out. No matter how you travel.

Architecture

Our coatings protect what you build. For day-to-day robustness and beautiful surfaces. On any material.

The service life of a building depends largely on the resistance of its outermost layer. This applies to every material used. And the construction industry is discovering more materials all the time. However, the combined elements must retain a consistent, flawless appearance over the long term, regardless of the technology used to coat them. For this reason, our system coatings combine the best possible components and are carefully matched with each other.

Wood

To emphasize the strength and beauty of nature, our coatings for wood and wood-based materials become one with this traditional natural product.

Wood is a living material. So coatings for wood have to meet various requirements – depending on the application. Our coatings for wood and wood-based materials not only take into account their natural character, but also create the ideal conditions for durable and robust aesthetics.

Your advantages with our system coatings:

Combined powder/wet coating solutions from a single source

Efficient service solutions

For perfectly matched surfaces in terms of shade, gloss, effect and texture
